Market Update

Category	Up/Down/Flat	News Flash
Beef	↓	The Jan 1st near slaughter ready cattle inventory is estimated to be up 8.4% versus the 3 year average. This suggests cattle supplies should be historically adequate this winter although beef output will be tempered by lighter cattle weights. Ribeye and tenderloin prices are weakening due to easing holiday demand.
Poultry	→	The chicken wing index has risen 84% since April and history suggests further price appreciation is still likely to occur through Jan. However, chicken wing prices tend to fade in late winter. Last year, the chicken wing market fell 7% in the month of Feb. Any chicken wing depreciation this coming winter could be limited.
Milk	→	Nov US milk output was 1.8% more than last year due to a 1% larger milk cow herd and a .8% increase in the milk per cow yield versus '10. Milk farmers decreased the herd in Nov by a net 1,000 head versus Oct marking the first monthly decline since Sept '10. Next year's dairy cow herd is anticipated to decline leading to only modest milk output growth.
Cheese	→	The CME cheese block and barrel markets have declined in recent weeks. However, history suggests that the US cheese markets could bottom soon.
Butter	↓	The CME butter market is likely to find support as well. Leveling after 2 weeks of lower prices.
Oil	→	In all a relatively quiet week with traders and buyers alike winding down the year and preparing for the holidays. January soybean oil closed the day at $0.4955 down 5 points on the week
Flour	↓	Wheat futures prices are lower this week with basis holding steady. Wheat supplies are abundant partly due to reduced demand from mills with the upcoming holidays and mill run downtime. The wheat crop was the smallest in five years. At the same time, the rest of the world has had record large crops. The result is a projection for U.S. wheat exports that is 364 million bushels lower than last year.
Sugar	→	Sugar is likely to remain strong and get stronger in the very near term. Despite the dramatic price reversal in the latter half of May, the fundamentals have not changes and Sugar is still in short supply.
